To Our Subscribers

The post office department has taken decided measures to enforce the recent rulings of the department in reference to newspaper postage. Newspaper publishers will hereafter be forced to discontinue all papers upon which subscriptions are a year or more in arrears. The department has notified us that such newspapers (a year in arrears) will be received for mailing only at the transient rate, prepaid by stamps affixed, unless said subscriptions be expressly renewed for a definite time, with actual cash payment, or a bona fide promise of payment.

Now the publisher of this paper has always been willing to extend reasonable credit to his subscribers, and, but for the interference of the postal authorities, would personally still be willing to do so. But as transient rates of postage would cost more than he gets for the subscription, he has no option but to stop all papers upon which subscription is unpaid for a year or more until he can secure renewals for such dropped subscriptions.

Famous Steal to Be Righted, or Should

To the predatory interests, Ohio is a center of disturbance. It is particularly so to certain interests located in Cincinnati.

In 1896 when the Cox-Forsaker gang absolutely controlled the State as well as the Cincinnati local government, a servile legislature empowered the Cox puppets in Cincinnati to give a 50-year franchise to the local street railway monopoly. The franchise was granted accordingly.

There were protests, both against the bill in the legislature and against the franchise before the local board, which completed the infamy. But those were the days of "government by a representative part of the people," and popular protests did not count.

Now Boss Cox has been driven from power and legislative conditions have improved sufficiently to give the people a fighting chance. Consequently, this stolen franchise, along with some other wrongs of the past, is now in jeopardy.

Herbert S. Bigelow is now a member of the Legislature. He sees nothing wrong in forcing a thief to restore stolen property to the rightful owner even if he has had undisturbed possession for 17 years. He does not see that the thief's title has been made any better by labeling the stolen goods, "vested rights."

So he has introduced a bill to revoke the franchise. Ohio's constitution does not protect special privileges granted by one legislature against revocation by a successor.

Cincinnati's predatory circles are shocked at this disregard of precedent. Heretofore only petty thieves, when caught, have been required to surrender their spoil. Heretofore the plea of being an innocent purchaser of stolen goods has been unquestioningly accepted—except when the purchaser was poor and the thing stolen worth considerably less than a million.

But Bigelow holds that the same rule should apply to big thefts as to small ones.

In this case it was impossible for any stockholder to be an innocent purchaser. There was too much publicity when the franchise was granted. It was too well known that the consent of the people had not been asked, and that protests were disregarded.

When public officials defy popular sentiment and betray the public interest in order to confer great financial gain on an individual or group of individuals, the immorality of the transaction is evident without further proof.

These "innocent purchasers" knew what they were buying. They gambled on the ignorance or helplessness of the rightful owners. They guessed wrong. They were willing to grab the gains if they had guessed right. They should surrender without whining when they see they have guessed wrong.

To the worn out and hypocritical idea that much of the stock is owned by "widows and orphans," Bigelow has answered:

"I will say with Victor Hugo that I will weep for the children of the bondholders, if you will weep with me for the children of the poor people of Cincinnati who have to pay an exorbitant fare for an interior service."

Whether there is a majority in the present legislature morally superior to the boss-controlled grafters in its predecessor of 1896, remains to be seen. The vote on Bigelow's measure will be a reliable indication.

WON'T HELP BURY BRYAN ANY MORE

[Mr. Dooley, in Cincinnati Enquirer]
Well, sir," said Mr. Dooley, "there's wan thing I'll niver do again, an' that's attind a political funeral in Willam Jennings Bryan. It's now 16 years since I got out th' stovepipe hat with th' crape band around it an' thought I'd seen th' last of that pleasant, open countenance at caucus or convention."

Since then I've seen Capital take him to th' top iv th' Stock Exchange buildin' an' shove him off th' roof to an indignant mob iv bankers who finished him with their coupon shears.

I've seen him destroyed by Joe Bailey an' extarninated by Champ Clark.

I've seen him put in a bag with a pig iv lead sewed to his feet an' flung into th' river.

I've heard th' despairin' cry, th' dreadfull splash, an' th' muttered prayers iv 'Th' divlle take him.' Every time I picked up a pa-per I read an article sayin': 'End iv Bryan and Bryanism. Oscar Underwood's splendid victory in keepin' th' tariff on tenpenny nails assures us free-trade-in-th'-year-eight-thousand Dimmycrats that the ghostly specter iv Bryan an' Bryanism that has been hangin' over th' party fr' years has been shoeed away.'

"I niver agreed, Himnissay, with them cynics that say th' ye can't believe anything ye see in th' pa-pers. I have always insisted that th' death notices were fairly ac-rate. But it seem ye can't aven thrust them whin they deal with Willam Jennings Bryan. Fr' far fr'm bein' wan iv those statesmen whose faces, distorted by g-reat pain in makin' a public address, no longer glow on th' front pages iv th' pa-pers, Willam Jennings is as much alive as a Kerry man at a picnic."

Whin th' new Administration seizes th' rudder iv th' ship iv state an' with song an' story a Dimmycrat Cabinet gathers around th' big table, th' face that will occupy th' top chair nex' to th' man with th' carvin' knife will be th' same face that has poored its floquence on us fr' these many years. At last, that's what I r-read. If it ain't th' man iv Bryan ain't g'oin' into th' Cal'net, I'd rather be outside, fr' there's where th' fun will be."

His Millions for Justice; None for Charity

Joseph Fels received a request for his photograph to be placed in the gallery of philanthropists of the National Memorial of the United States. He declined. His reasons, as given in a letter to the Secretary, R. E. Donn, were as follows:

"I have made no philanthropic gifts. I give nothing to Charity. When I have any money to give away I give it to Justice."

I do not think it would be fair to the 'philanthropists' or to the cause with which I am identified that my picture should be in your gallery.

The men usually called 'philanthropists', as a rule, uphold existing injustice but give money to relieve victims of the wrongs they uphold."

Good and True

Safe and reliable—for regulating the bowels, stimulating the liver, toning the stomach—the world's most famous and most approved family remedy is

BEECHAM'S PILLS

Sold everywhere In boxes 10c., 25c.

One conspicuous example is a man who has given enormous sums to found libraries and to abolish war. I do not wish to be understood as questioning his sincerity, but it is nevertheless true that he is doing all that one man of influence can do to perpetuate the evils he is endeavoring to relieve. He has been and still is a staunch upholder of the form of robbery called 'protective tariff.' He has written, spoken and given money in behalf of this iniquity. However good his intentions, the fact remains that in supporting international tariffs and in opposing free trade, he is doing more to perpetuate national hatred and jealousies than all his contributions to peace funds can begin to destroy. Besides the tariff, he upholds other predatory institutions, which impoverish the people and debar them from opportunities for education which none of his libraries can supply.

This man is typical of so-called 'philanthropists.' The most prominent supporters of charitable institutions in our cities are men who bitterly oppose abolition of wrongs that create poverty. There are philanthropists who denounce employers of labor for paying low wages, who point accusingly at owners of department stores blaming them for white slavery; who denounce owners of unsanitary tenements; who rave about political corruption and demand legislation forbidding every evil under the sun, but who will not lift a finger to help remove the fundamental cause of these evils.

While denouncing employers who pay low wages, they shut their eyes to the fact that they themselves uphold conditions which force laborers to choose between low wages or none at all. While denouncing tenement owners they refuse to consider taxation of industry and legal encouragement of land speculation that make tenement evils inevitable. While denouncing political corruption and demanding futile prohibitory laws they uphold the wrongs which create poverty and drive men to get a living from corruption or other evils in preference to starvation or beggary.

These philanthropists may well be described as men who give money to repair a little of the harm they have themselves helped to do, or as Tolstois who will do nothing to do anything to help the poor except to get off their backs."

Identified, as I am, with the great movement to remove the cause of poverty, it would be a mistake to classify me with those opposing our efforts and who would apparently prefer that all the evils they decry should exist forever rather than that the cause of them should be disturbed.

Mr. Fels might have offered one suggestion for the consideration of the Memorial Association; that in lieu of his picture they frame and hang his letter in their gallery. It would enable visitors thereto to better understand the true nature of what is commonly called 'philanthropy.'

BUCKEYE NEWS NOTES

MATTERS OF GENERAL INTEREST TO RESIDENTS OF OHIO.

Home Rulers May Fight Utilities Bill.
Columbus, O., Feb. 6.—The administration's public utilities bill seems certain to arouse opposition from municipal "home rulers" because it gives the public utilities commission powers of inspection and supervision over municipally-owned utilities. The new measure eliminates from the present law all reference to occupational qualifications of members, in order that Governor Cox may immediately reorganize the present commission. It provides for the present valuation of public utilities in Ohio, the work to be done by an engineer of public utilities appointed by the commission.

Girls Tell Revolting Tales.
Lima, O., Feb. 6.—Revolting stories involving middle-aged business men were told to Police Chief Earnst by eight factory girls, ranging in age from 14 to 18 years, who were arrested.

Sore Throat Wisdom
If every mother could realize the danger that lurks behind every case of sore throat, she wouldn't rest until she had effected a cure every time a child has it.

Your family physician will verify the statement that it is a positive fact that every child with sore throat is in immediate danger of contracting Croup, Quinsy, Tonsillitis or Diphtheria, and is not removed from that danger until the throat is cured. Think of it! Liniments or outward application of medicines do not and cannot cure the ailment, though they may offer temporary relief. Neither can you cure sore throat with a cough syrup or a cold cure.

To cure, you must get at the seat of the disease, removing the cause. Nothing does that so quickly, safely and surely as TONSILINE. A single dose of TONSILINE taken upon the first appearance of sore throat may save long weeks of sickness, great expense, worry, even death. TONSILINE is the stitch in time.

Use a little sore throat wisdom and buy a bottle of TONSILINE today. You may need it tomorrow.

TONSILINE is the standard sore throat remedy—best known and most effective and most used. Look for the long necked fellow on the bottle when you go to the drug store to get it. 35 cents and 50 cents. Hospital Size $1.00. All Druggists.

ed. Not only did the girls name several prominent men, but declared to the police that scores of other girls had been forced to leave home because of the low wages received in the factories. Chief Earnst found that the girls had been lured to Lima by tales of fascinating city life, only to have their romantic dreams shattered by inadequate factory wages.

Reform in Drawing Juries.
Columbus, O., Feb. 6.—James Clark of Hamilton county has a bill providing for reform in drawing juries. His measure provides for the appointment by the common pleas court of two jury commissioners, who will also act as assignment commissioners at salaries of $2,500 a year each. They are to sit during the entire year and will examine prospective jurors as to their physical and mental condition before placing their names in the jury wheel.

Exonerates Brother at Trial.
Elyria, O., Feb. 6.—An apparently certain verdict of guilt for murder was changed from one man to another here when Anton Bobbe, one of two brothers on trial, testified that he, and not Basil Bobbe, killed Sean-law Stanbott in a quarrel over a girl at Lorain, Oct. 11, 1912. Witnesses had said Anton was innocent and that Basil stabbed Stanbott to death. Then Anton took the stand, exonerated his brother and admitted the killing.

May Depose Kohler.
Cleveland, O., Feb. 5.—Mayor Newton Baker intimated that when Police Chief F. H. Kohler returns from Panama, where he is enjoying a vacation, while crime rages in Cleveland, he will either discharge him or file charges against him. Baker said: "I have personally investigated the rumors which have been abroad in the city for some time with regard to Chief Kohler. I believe I have now possession of the facts."

ASK STATE TO WAR ON WHITE PLAGUE

Ohio Society Needs Assistance in Its Campaign on Disease.

KILLS 7,000 OHIOANS YEARLY

Plan to Have State Board of Health Spend $25,000 a Year in a Broader Campaign of Education Than Limited Resources of Volunteer Society Will Admit.

In urging the creation of the new State Division of Tuberculosis, under the direction of the State Board of Health, members of the Ohio Society for the Prevention of Tuberculosis are hammering upon three cardinal points:

The disease causes more than 7,000 deaths annually in Ohio.

There are now more than 35,000 sufferers in this state.

The disease is preventable—is known as "the disease of ignorance"—and its ravages may be greatly curtailed by educating the public.

These are three excellent reasons why the state should take a hand in the fight. Tuberculosis has become a great problem, and for the protection of its citizens the state should take action in curbing it. The bill providing for the establishment of the new division carries with it an appropriation of but $25,000 a year, for two years, which is but very small when compared to the great outlay devoted to other lines of public work.

Plan Educational Work.

Dr. Robert G. Paterson, executive secretary of the state society, says that if the appropriation is made—and indications are that it will be—the state will carry on the work the state society has begun, extend it, and conduct a campaign of education through the newspapers and through exhibits to teach the people means of preventing and fighting the modern scourge.

"A plan to make compulsory reports on all cases of tuberculosis is one of the absolutely essential things needed," Dr. Paterson declared. "This has been ordered by the State Board of Health, and under the new department it would be extended by employing a statistician to follow up and analyze the reports sent in by the local health authorities and check these with information obtained from other sources."

Should Extend Work.

"The work of free examination of all sputum, which is now carried on by the State Board of Health, should be extended. The importance of this service should be impressed upon the physicians as well as the general public," Dr. Paterson declared.

"The department would extend the work of free disinfection of rooms or apartments that have been vacated by consumptives," he continued. "Efforts along this line would be directed towards the local health authorities, urging them to perform this as regularly as any other function and toward the public at large in an effort to make them expect this service."

"Of highest importance, I believe, would be the campaign of education. The tentative plans provide for a traveling exhibit with several smaller exhibits which could be loaned to schools under the direction of a competent director and lecturer."

Publicity Would Help.
"The publicity plan also contemplates enlisting the aid of physicians all over the state to lecture in the public schools and at public gatherings, and the employment of a newspaper man to see that news matter of an educational nature gets to the newspapers of the state. If the support of the 700 Ohio editors can be enlisted in an anti-tuberculosis campaign their help will be the greatest force in curbing the disease," the secretary said.

"There are several other important matters that would come under the direction of the state department," Dr. Paterson added. "They could prepare and distribute the circulars and pamphlets which have been found to be effective, could provide sanitary cupboards for the poor patients and to various charitable societies for distribution; keep in touch with the physicians of the state and keep tab on all cases, and accomplish similar things that the Ohio society can not do."

Funds Too Limited.

Since the state society was organized originally in 1901 and reorganized in 1911, the anti-tuberculosis propaganda has been pushed vigorously in Ohio, but the society has been hampered by a lack of funds. Its chief source of revenue has been from the annual sale of Christmas seals, and the balance amounted to only $7,000.

The importance of the work in face of the growing menace of consumption has convinced those in charge of the work that state co-operation is necessary.

The plan for the establishment of a state division has been formally endorsed by the society, which includes many of the leading physicians and philanthropic men and women of the state, by the State Board of Health, by the Ohio State Medical society, and by many prominent men who have been consulted regarding the proposed measure.

The Easy Laxative

In justice to yourself you should try Rexall Orderlies,—your money back if you don't like them. They are a candy confection that really do give easy relief from constipation.

Good health is largely dependent upon the bowels. When they become sluggish the waste material that is thrown off by the system accumulates. This condition generates poisons which circulate throughout the body, tending to create coated tongue, bad breath, headache, dull brain action, nervousness, biliousness and other annoyances.

Avoid harsh cathartics and physics. They give but temporary relief. They often aggravate the real trouble. They are particularly bad for children, delicate or aged persons.

Rexall Orderlies

Come in tablet form, taste just like candy and are noted for their easy, soothing action upon the bowels. They don't purge, gripe, cause nausea, looseness, or the inconvenience attendant upon the use of purgatives. Their action is so pleasant that the taking of Rexall Orderlies almost becomes a desire instead of a duty.

Children like Rexall Orderlies. They are ideal for aged or delicate persons as well as for the most robust. They act toward relieving constipation, and also to overcome the cause and to make unnecessary the frequent use of laxatives. They serve to tone and strengthen the nerves and muscles of the bowels and associated organs or glands.

Make Us Prove It

We guarantee to refund every penny paid us for Rexall Orderlies if they do not give entire satisfaction. We ask no promises and we in no way obligate you. Your word is sufficient for us to promptly and cheerfully refund the money.

Doesn't that prove that Rexall Orderlies must be right? You must know we would not dare make such a promise unless we were positively certain that Rexall Orderlies will do all we claim for them. There is no money risk attached to a trial of Rexall Orderlies, and in justice to yourself, you should not hesitate to test them.

Rexall Orderlies come in convenient 100-tablet boxes: 12 tablets, 10c; 26 tablets, 25c; 80 tablets, 50c.
